Open access

All articles published in the Journal of Management Accounting, Governance, and Performance (JMAGP) are open-access. There is no charge to the authors.

The submission process:

For the time being, a Microsoft Word copy of the manuscript must be e-mailed in the attached files to jmagp@icmab.gov.bd along with an undertaking (in a separate Word file) that the submitted paper is the original work of the author(s) and not yet published elsewhere or not yet accepted anywhere or not yet submitted anywhere for the consideration for publication.

Our submission portal is in the development stage. Once the portal is ready, Manuscripts are to be submitted by the corresponding author using our editorial system. For the first time submission, the corresponding author has to create an account on our system. For the subsequent submission or status check, the author will be asked to log in using the username (email address used while creating the account) and password.

Post Submission

The corresponding author will be notified by an automated email once the manuscript is submitted successfully. The email will contain a manuscript number for use in all future correspondence about the paper.

Review and decision process

If your paper does not meet our journal standard or scope, an email will be sent within seven (07) days of submission. If it meets the criteria, the first-round review report will be sent within 45 days [or earlier] of submission. The corresponding author will be able to check the manuscript's status by logging in to our editorial system.

Once the manuscript is accepted, an acceptance letter will be sent to the author. Once the publication process is complete, it will be published online immediately for early citation with DOI numbers.

Please note that once the manuscript is submitted, no authors can be added or dropped from the list. Please see the review and publication process in the following diagram.
